"Probably more than any other business in the community, the supermarket represents a focal point for many people because food is so central to our everyday lives. If done right, a strong community relations program, along with good in-store customer relations, will endear the retailer to his or her customers in a way that no other program Can." – Ken Robb, senior vice president for Dick's Supermarkets in Platteville, WI. Excerpt from "Community Relations Activities & The Supermarket Industry", Food Marketing Institute, 1998.

Community Connection

Partnership with the California 5 a Day Retail Program gives you the chance to raise awareness, invest in your community's future, and give back to your customers. Local 5 a Day leaders are available to assist you in building and maintaining community-based public-private sector partnerships. They also help implement and maintain bilingual POS materials, as well as food demonstration and promotional activities.

Positive Company Image

Involvement with the 5 a Day Retail Program communicates to your business partners, community leaders, and consumers that you are committed to improving the health of your neighborhood and inspiring healthy change in your community.

Potential Sales Increases

The work of the local 5 a Day communities in our state are affecting consumption. Initial research completed in 2000 shows that fruit and vegetable consumption increased when Latino adults were exposed to the 5 a Day message at a variety of locations in the community using a combination of intervention channels, including retail based activities. In addition, research completed in 2001 indicated that over 97% of retailers surveyed believed that 5 a Day activities would increase produce sales!

Here's what people in the retail industry have been saying about the impact 5 a Day has had on their stores:

Superior Super Warehouse Stores – Los Angeles, CA

"Our consumers want convenience and lower prices and by providing the 5 a Day recipes and fruit and vegetable seasonal guides, we make it easy for them to shop at Superior Super Warehouse. At Superior, we try our best to provide our shoppers with fruits and vegetables that are in season, fresh and at the lowest possible price," says Phil Lawrence, Vice President of Operations for Superior Super Warehouse. Fresh Digest Magazine, June/July 2004.

Gazzali's Market - Oakland, CA

"We want it (the store) to be very competitive, have low pricing but have good quality produce to meet the needs and demands of the area," said Amani Algazzali, co-owner of the supermarket. "We want it to be as good quality and fresh as we possibly can. We want to have a good reputation so when people walk in they'll find good quality and fresh food..." The supermarket is one of several projects the California 5 a Day Campaign – and its multiple partners – are working on to improve access to healthy food for Californians. About California 5 a Day

The Early Days

Beginning in 1988 with a grant from the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the State of California Department of Health Services (CDHS) developed a program to empower Californians to consume 5 or more servings of fruits and vegetables a day to reduce the risk of diet-related chronic diseases including cancer and heart disease.

As a result of the successes realized, health officials and members of the fruit and vegetable industry decided to make 5 a Day a national program in 1991 as a partnership between NCI and the Produce for Better Health Foundation. To date, over 60 state and U.S. territorial health agencies are licensed to conduct independent 5 a Day programs. Participants in California include state and county health agencies, state departments of education and agriculture, cooperative extension, voluntary agencies, businesses, and many more.

5 a Day Today

The California 5 a Day—for Better Health! Campaign, which is led by CDHS and administered by the Public Health Institute, has grown tremendously since 1988. In addition to increasing fruit and vegetable consumption, the Campaign also encourages adults and children to be more physically active every day for better health.

The Campaign works with communities to change environments so that 5 a Day and physical activity are both easy to do and socially supported. The Campaign conducts its work through a variety of targeted programs including the Children's 5 a Day—Power Play! Campaign, Latino 5 a Day Campaign, African American 5 a Day Campaign, 5 a Day – Be Active! Worksite Program, and 5 a Day Retail Program.

5 a Day Retail

The 5 a Day Retail Program helps stores to increase the purchase of fruits and vegetables among low-income Californians by offering in-store point-of-purchase materials, recipe cards and sampling activities, such as food demonstrations and retail-sponsored community events. In a 2001 survey, 5 a Day retailers said they:

- liked the 5 a Day materials they received.
- agreed that promoting fruits and vegetables in their stores is a priority.
- agreed that 5 a Day activities increase customer awareness of 5 a Day.
- agreed that 5 a Day activities increase the purchase of fruits and vegetables.

Q: How do I know if my store qualifies for free 5 a Day materials?

A: We use 2000 Census data to determine if a store is located in an area where the majority of its residents are at or below the 185% federal poverty level (or $34,873 median household income for a family of four). To download a list of qualifying stores, please visit www.ca5aday.com and click on "Retail 5 a Day".

Q: What if my store does not qualify for free 5 a Day materials?

A: A select number of Retail Merchandising Kits are available. The kit contains a mixture of signage that includes 5 a Day logo and serving size posters. Materials may be ordered by using the Retail Order Form located under the "Retail 5 a Day" section of our website.

Q: How do I order materials?

A: Please download and print the Retail Order Form located under the "Retail 5 a Day" section of our website. Submit the form to the contact information provided.

Q: What will be expected of me as a participating 5 a Day store?

A: At a minimum, participating 5 a Day stores display merchandising materials. Community leaders add another level of service by providing replenishment, replacement, and display assistance. You may choose to utilize their assistance or maintain these items in-house. The most active 5 a Day stores work with the community to host food demonstrations and community-based events. The level of involvement is up to you!

Q: How will I be connected to a community agency and what will they do? A: Once your order has been placed and the store location verified, Retail Program staff forward your information to a 5 a Day community agency in your area. The agency will contact you directly.
